

Woodlands Trail thanks Chevron

On Mon., Sept. 28, community and business leaders were invited by David J. O'Reilly, Chairman of the Board and CEO of Chevron and John S. Watson, Vice Chairman of the Board to a reception at Chevron's Northpark facility in Covington to meet Chevron's Board of Directors. The reception provided the unique opportunity for the Board of Directors of Chevron and community and business leaders to meet each other in person. For Katie Brasted, Executive Director of Woodlands Trail and Park, the reception provided an opportunity to express gratitude to the Chevron board members and local employees for their long-standing support of Woodlands Trail and Park. Woodlands Trail and Park is an organization that has developed nature trails and interpretive information in one of Southeastern Louisiana's last stands of bottomland hardwood forests in Belle Chasse. Mr. O'Reilly expressed Chevron's gratitude to those in the nonprofit organizations who provide the quality of life elements that his company and its employee's value in the communities in which they have facilities. Other individuals attending the reception from the Plaquemines Parish community included Paul Springer and George Pivach.

Picture above, Katie Brasted, left, Executive Director, Woodlands Trail and Park, and Senator Sam Nunn, Chevron Board of Directors.